CHICAGO, Nov. 1 .- W. J. Bryan this afternoon began his three days' itinerary of this city, addressing a vast concourse at to the laboring man to say that he has Randolph street and Michigan avenue. The speakers' stand was at the side of the Public Library, and so dense was the throng around it that the presidential candidate was literally dragged to the platform by a squad of policemen, who acted under the personal supervision of Mayor Harrison, who had ridden with Mr. Bryan from the railway station. Mr. Bryan was in excellent voice, and this he used to good effect in reducing the storm of cheering that greeted him when he was introduced. His speech was applauded almost incessantly, which he proceeded on his tour of the northwest side of the city, where he made the committee with the recommendation of eight speeches, all of which were made to the Republicans of the committee that the large crowds. In his address at the Public Library Mr. Bryan said, in part:

I have had no disposition in this campaign to mention Mr. Kern's name until I was informed that he had repeatedly, and I understand in this city, by insinuation and inuendo, declared, if he was elected Goverenor, the State would not be disgraced by affording a refuge for murderers. This is an undignified attack upon my refusal to honor a requisition for the return of Mr. Finley and Governor Taylor to Kentucky. The right of the executive of a honoring of requisitions has been upheld by the courts. Governor Cleveland exerrefused to surrender an alleged murderer. In short, the executives of several States have thus acted, clearly establishing the exercise of this right as not being in conflict with the Constitution, but a right under the Constitution. To accuse men of being murderers savors of a prejudice and rashness unbecoming a candidate for the high office of Governor of a great State. The committee preparing the Democratic State platform refused to criticise the action of the Governor in declining to return these men. Stalwart Democrats, men of wisdom and conservatism, were too wise to commit the party to such a policy. Hon. Josiah Gwin, the veteran Democratic editor of the State, who was promulgating Democratic doctrines long before Mr. Kern was a factor in politics, and who is now a Democratic member of the State Senate. came to my office at the close of the State convention to compliment me for refusing to honor the requisition for the extradition of Governor Taylor. Mr. Gwin said: "I am a Democrat of the stalwart school. If, by honest election, I could defeat Republicans, no Republican would ever hold office. But when a man has been elected, as Governor Taylor has been, I would shoulder a musket to help seat him." He also said: "If I were the Governor of this State, I would refuse to return Governor Taylor to a prejudiced court, to be deprived of liberty and perhaps life." Mr. Gwin editorially, in his paper, the "New Albany Public Press," lauded my action. The three trials held in Kentucky have been so manifestly of the Chicago Record, after investigat-

Remorse of conscience overtakes one of the bribed and perjured witnesses, and he makes afidavit that words were put into his mouth by Tom Campbell and Arthur Goebel, and money into his hands, and he admits that he swore to a lie.

The Indianapolis News, in editorial comment in its issue of Wednesday, Oct. 31, "There can be no doubt that the trials of the men charged with Goebel's 279,717, and a decrease for the month of | murder have been grossly unfair, and now $1,328,791. Everything in connection with this business has justified Governor Mount in his refusal to send men back to Kentucky to be tried at this time.' Mr. Kern has displayed a bitter partisan spirit, and has uttered words of rashness that militate against his fitness for the high position he seeks. His words are akin to his partisan action of calling up the Nicholson bill in the Senate, in order to put the Republicans at a disadvantage, but when, to his consternation, it passed the Senate, then behold a would-be statesman apologizing to the saloon element. to "put the Republican party in a hole." This action of Mr. Kern and his undignified attack upon my refusal to send Governor politician than to fill the high office to which he aspires.

I have remained silent under the virulent assaults of small-gauge papers and smallcaliber politicians, prefering to let time and developments of events justify my action. I had hoped that the murder of William Goebel would be justly avenged. The Chinese Minister Pays a Tribute to Philanthropic Americans. PITTSBURG, Nov. 1.-Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister, was the principal speaker at the Founder's day exercises at Carnegie Institute to-day. He said in part:

"China has a great deal to learn from this young Republic. I hope, however, that she will learn, not the arts of war, which have for sole end and aim the destruction of life, but the arts of peace, which make for the happiness and welfare of the people. No nation can become really great by war. True greatness does not lie strength of battalions, but in the character of people. From personal observation I am inclined to the belief that the American people possess the element of national greatness in a high degree. The test of the loftiness of character is to possess boundless power without abusing Wealth is power. Where can you find such vast accumulations of wealth in private hands as in America, with so little attendant evil felt by society? I have seen countries where the rich oppress the poor and the poor curse the rich. There 'money is the root of all evil.' The reverse seems the benefit of the people, and the people have good reason to bless the rich. In for an example. In your midst you have a signal instance of this class of philanmunificence. Here one can find the most mind and the uplifting of the soul. Books, paintings, sculpture and specimens of objects possessing educational value are accessible to all persons at all times. The industrial establishments as to see this institution, which sheds its refining influence far and wide. Pittsburg will be equally famous as a great educational center and as a commercial and manufacturing center. May this standing monument of the public-spiritedness of the founder move other millionaires to follow his example. May the Founder's day, which i ever observed from year to year as a national event." The report of Secretary Church showed that the library and its branches now contain 116,000 volumes. There were issued for home use during the year 400,000 volused the reading rooms during the year was 480,000, an increase of 130,000 over the previous year. The report speaks in glowing terms of the state of the art gallery, of the organ recitals by Frederick Archer and of the Pittsburg orchestra under the direction of Victor Herbert. Mr. Frew read a very brief letter from Andrew Carnegie. In it he said it was most appropriate to invite the Chinese minister to speak, and added that the American people do not appreciate the Chinese as they should, seeing only the class that emigrates.

The whole truth is, gentlemen, that we all of us go up or go down together. When hard times comes they come to each of us, and when prosperity comes something of the prosperity comes to each of us. I agree with Mr. Bryan that there are other things bethe doors Thursday afternoon to hear sides the full dinner pail involved. He is quite right, and they can be comprehended by the word 'patriotism,' the honor of th flag, the honor of the Nation.

"Mr. Bryan does not confine himself very rigidly to facts," he said. "He stated he believed in the expansion of Jefferson, which did not acquire human beings, but not in the expansion which did acquire beings in the Philippines. Now, I don't know how much Mr. Bryan knows of our history. but I suppose he must have looked at least at the matter of the acquisition of what was then called the Louisiana Territory, under President Jefferson, the founder of Democracy. The transmississippi country, from the Gulf of Mexico to the Rocky mountains, was acquired by purchase precisely as the Philippines have been acquired under President McKinley. Leaving out the Indians, there were in the territory of Louisiana several thousand civilized beings. Frenchmen and Spaniards, who were much more civilized than any people to be found in the Philippines, and President Jefferson did not even ask their consent, and when they threatened revolt he sent an armed force into that Territory, just exactly as President McKinley sent MacArthur and Wheaton and their troops into the Philippines. Mr. Bryan says the Declaration of sionists of that day attacked him and criticised him. He said in a letter written over his own signature that it was mere folly to twist the doctrine of the Declaration of Independence so as to apply to such cases. Those are his very words to a people as unfit to exercise political rights as if they were children; in other words, when he came to deal with the Louis ana purchase President Jefferson approached the subject in a spirit of common sense, and that is the way we have got to approach the Philip-

The Governor then took up the subject of the regular army, and after discussing the same arguments to his audience as he has heretofore used at other places, said: "There is about one regular soldier to every 1,200 of us, and if the 1,200 of us are afraid of losing our liberties through the one man in Uncle Sam's uniform we ought to lose them. Mr. Bryan knows there is no more danger to our liberties from the regular army than there is from the justices of the peace and the constables. It can't be used in foreign conquest. I hope the army can be reduced when the trou in the Philippines ceases, and the trouble in the Philippines will cease just as soon as Mr. Bryan and his supporters themselves cease from aiding and abetting the

There was a fair-sized parade. an enduring monument of the founder's Friends and nonresistance people in his "Life of Thomas H. Benton," the Governor to-day made public his answer:

"The aforesaid circular was distributed among the members of the Society of Friends throughout Pennsylvania, Indiana, Ohio, Maryland and New York, and was visit this city not so much to see the great addressed to the Friendly voters. The sentence quoted in the circular quoted is as "'A class of professional noncombatants is as hurtful to the real healthy growth of a nation as is a class of fireeaters; for a weakness or folly is nationally as bad as a vice, or worse, and in the long run a Quaker may be quite as undesirable a citizen as a duellist. No man who is not willheartily join with you in celebrating, be ing to bear arms and fight for his rights can give a good reason why be should be entitled to the privilege of living in a free community. The answer is addressed to William E. Walton, of Baltimore, Md., and in it the Governor says: "The sentence of mine which is complained of, and which was written fifteen years ago, was intended to express my disagreement both with the man who acts on inadequate provocation and of the man who on adequate provocation fails to act. It would be untrue to say that I have altered my convictions in the matter, but were I to now rewrite tha sentence I should certainly so phrase it that it could not be construed as offensive to the Society of Friends, a body whose social virtues and civic righteousness justly command universal respect."
